

'65 2+2 convertible at Mecum Harrisburg

Posted by OldInjun - 2016/07/23 18:56

High bid of $50K, no sale on Saturday 7-23-16. I can't find a record of this car anywhere - current or former 2+2 Registry included. Incorrectly advertised as matching numbers, but the block code is YH - a 4BBL automatic engine. Car has incorrect '66 Tri-Power set up now and a 4-speed manual. Anyone know this car?

http://www.pontiac2plus2registry.com/images/fbfiles/images/Mecum_Harrisburg_no_sale_50K_7_21_16.GIF

=====

Re:'65 2+2 convertible at Mecum Harrisburg

Posted by fredscat - 2016/07/25 16:19

I watched this one pretty close because it was a lot like mine but after seeing that it had a lot of changes I felt that 50k was a very fair price! Reserve I heard was 75k on the car thats why they did not spend a lot of time on it Thats a lot of yellow on a big car!!! Fred

=====

Re:'65 2+2 convertible at Mecum Harrisburg

Posted by OldInjun - 2016/07/25 21:51

The seller of this car advised that it was originally equipped with an automatic trans, which explains the YH code engine (but doesn't jive with the "numbers matching" description).

=====