

Nice '65 for sale

Posted by BigBrother - 2010/10/29 21:01

This one has been on the market for over a year I think from dealer at around $45k. Nice at $25-30k for someone. The problem when these dealers market a car for so long I think it gets stale.

http://cgi.ebay.com/ebaymotors/Catalina-2-2-/150512244520?pt=US_Cars_Trucks&hash=item230b3a9728

=====

Re:Nice '65 for sale

Posted by OldInjun - 2010/10/30 09:09

That's a nice looking car - Blue Charcoal is my favorite color on these. A couple of nit-picks - dash pad & package tray are the wrong color, some incorrect finishes under the hood. I also have to laugh when someone equates "undesirable" with "rare", as in column-shift & no console. But I like the car a lot.

=====

Re:Nice '65 for sale

Posted by BigBrother - 2010/11/03 11:30

Bid is up to $25k today

=====

Re:Nice '65 for sale

Posted by OldInjun - 2010/11/03 13:56

one bidder has 0 feedback - always raises doubts with me.
Any guesses on the reserve?

=====

Re:Nice '65 for sale

Posted by BigBrother - 2010/11/04 10:58

I bet the reserve is $35-40k...Not going to happen. The are also selling a '65 Ventura on ebay that they put in one of the Mecum auctions a couple of months ago and they did not sell went it got what I thought was a reasonable bid. Both have been on market for over a year and if you are a dealer I would think you have a little idea of what the market would handle. If you want to collect them fine but sell if you are a seller.

=====

Re:Nice '65 for sale

Posted by OldInjun - 2010/11/04 18:00

$26100 now, and high bidder has no feedback. I suspect a shill.
I don't see this hitting reserve, either.

=====

Re:Nice '65 for sale

Posted by BigBrother - 2010/11/08 09:50

Think you are right about the bidding. The seller had 3 cars for sale at same time and the "bidders" were bidding on all three and one of those "won" the auction

=====

Re:Nice '65 for sale

Posted by OldInjun - 2010/11/08 11:25

Sold for $39K. I'm hoping it's a legitimate sale, because that would be a very strong price for an automatic column-shift car. I asked the seller to invite the buyer to register it here, so let's see what happens.

=====

Re:Nice '65 for sale

Posted by BigBrother - 2010/11/08 20:56

No way legit...the bidders were bidding on all 3 of their listings at the same time..with no other real bidders competing

=====

Re:Nice '65 for sale

Posted by OldInjun - 2010/11/09 08:13

Sometimes a dealer will "bid up" their own cars, so they can tell a prospective buyer that it "went for $39K on eBay".

=====