

cold weather preservation

Posted by john - 2014/01/06 20:08

due to rather extreme cold weather, I invite discussions from other members who have suggestions on storage and precautions in sub-zero weather situations

=====

Re: cold weather preservation

Posted by OldInjun - 2014/01/08 12:38

I've always found that benign neglect works just fine. My cars are stored in an unheated garage, and I can't say that I've ever encountered a weather related problem as a result. At the end of the car season I throw a couple of bags of desiccant on the Pontiac floor to prevent a moldy odor, but that's it.

=====